Course Summary

Please see course page for full description and additional details.*

Instructor: Michael Azgour, MFA | AZGOUR.COM

Michael Azgour is a contemporary artist whose paintings contemplate the space between perception and reality. A Native of California, he is known for large, expressive compositions which combine different painting styles, such as painterly figuration and geometric abstraction, to create new meaning. Azgour's paintings have been exhibited in galleries and museums in the US, Europe, and Asia. His work can be viewed at azgour.com

Class Sessions and Recording

Meeting days and times: WEDNESDAYS at 9:00 am PT (Pacific Time)

Meeting location: Zoom (details will be shared with registered students prior to first class meeting)

The Live Class Meetings will be recorded. The sessions are a chance for us to get together as a group and discuss topics of interest. Although you can watch the video recording after the session, I strongly recommend carving out some time each week for this dedicated hour to connect with our group. The more participants, the more dynamic the conversation and the more rewarding the experience will be for everyone.

Materials:

Students must purchase their own art supplies for this course and can expect to spend at least $45-$60 on these materials. The instructor has prepared a supply list for this course with the online supplier, Blick. The list contains the absolute lowest prices available, bringing the cost to about $55. Upgrading materials from these economy brands could yield better results (normally cost corresponds with quality, especially in regards to paint and brushes). From the online supply list, you have the ability to edit, add, and delete items in case you already have something, want to purchase a larger quantity or upgrade to a better brand. Alternatively, you can purchase your materials at any local art store.

It's highly recommended that you place your supply order as soon as possible to ensure your materials arrive prior to the first day of class. The list is available at the following link:

Course Structure:

EXERCISES

The bulk of this course will consist of daily exercises, intended to take 30-40 minutes each, not including setup, watching video demonstration, accessing resources, and cleanup. You can complete whichever exercises you like whenever you like. Your participation in exercises, including posting and commenting in the discussions, is optional. Please keep in mind, however, the more you participate, the more you will get out of the class. All exercises must be turned in by the last day of class to receive credit.

Each exercise prompt will include instructions along with an expressed objective and materials list. Many will also be accompanied by one or more of the following resources:

- Video Demonstrations: 1-7 minute video featuring the instructor demonstrating a method or technique related to the exercise
- Links: links to external online videos and articles featuring content related to the exercise

An entire week of exercises will be uploaded to our course at 10:00 AM PST the Friday prior to each week. In addition, every day, Monday through Friday, you'll receive an announcement in your email inbox with the daily exercise prompt. To ensure you receive these as soon as they are posted, set your "announcement" notification preference to "notify me right away."

Because of the higher enrollment compared with a traditional on-campus art studio course, students will not receive instructor feedback on daily posts. The instructor will look at every post but will normally comment only when there is a teachable moment which is intended to be seen by others as well. Students may request light instructor feedback on the project during the course.

PROJECT

There is one project, intended to take about 90-120 minutes, although you are welcome to spend more. It will be posted in Week 2. For the project, you will be asked to build on one exercise in the course. You're welcome to submit something else you've been working on in lieu of the project as long as it's something current. The project is submitted privately to the instructor who will take a close look and give you personal feedback. The project must be submitted by the last day of class to receive credit and instructor feedback.

GENERAL CLASS COMMENTS AND QUESTIONS DISCUSSION

This discussion is open throughout the course. It's a great place to post questions about the structure of the course, expectations, class grading requirements, as well as any specific questions or comments you'd like to share. The instructor will use this page to touch upon content introduced in the exercises and elaborate on some topics and as a way to introduce language and concepts that will be explored later in the course; it's a great place to learn and connect. Students are encouraged to contribute with concise and edited entries about the topics we encounter.
